ALL DECEIVED TEAPOT BIDDERS, WITNESSES SAY AT SINCLAIR TRIAL

Senator Kendrick Says He Was Told Three Days After Contract Was OK'd Deal Was Still Open.

OFFER SOUGHT WEEK AFTER THE LEASE

Head of Texas Co. Testifies Ex-Secretary Informed Him Defendant Had Oil Reserve "in the Bag."

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The world, if sometimes amusing, story how Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall deceived, double-crossed and hoaxed the oil men, who were competing with Harry F. Sinclair for a lease on Apap Dome Naval Reserve, was related by a procession of witnesses today in the criminal trial of Sinclair for conspiracy to defraud the Government. It was an old, familiar narrative, but neither its familiarity nor familiarity have destroyed its interest. To hear a Cabinet officer pictured as lying to one man, telling a second off, "stringing" a third, withholding information from another, and finally, with a clean face, inviting one to bid for a lease which had really been granted a week before, and at that moment occupied a drawer in his safe, to hear that this was still to be leased that such things could actually have happened.

Nor was Fall's deception confined to the oil men who were appearing for the lease. When Senator John B. Hendrick of Wyoming, called up on April 10 for information, was sent a press release, dated April 6, stating that no lease had been granted, only to learn later that the lease had been signed April 7.

Texas Co. Kept in the Dark. The most formidable contender, however, was Amos L. Beatty, president of the Texas Co., whom Fall put off and kept in darkness until after the deal with Sinclair was complete. Beatty's company was large and powerful, it was able to perform the contract as was Sinclair, and it offered higher royalties, but the evidence showed that neither it nor any of the others had a Chinaman's chance to get the lease.

Sinclair and Fall were hand-in-hand from the start, every pretense of impartiality on Fall's part was most brazen hokum.

In March, 1922, Fall might lease the Teapot Dome to Washington and transferred Fall on March 31. "I told him my cousin wanted to be considered if a lease was granted," he said. "Secretary told me he had an offer from Sinclair which was satisfactory, that he would be glad to have offer from the Texas Co.

Beatty gave Fall a schedule of the royalties which he would be willing to pay the Government on the lease. They ran from 12½ per cent up to 40 per cent of the production. This rate was much higher than the royalty rate eventually paid by Sinclair, which averaged about 28 per cent.

"Secretary Fall," Beatty continued, "said it would be his policy to lease the reserve to the applicant which succeeded in settling on the oil placer mining claims, which were outstanding against Fall. He said Sinclair and myself had agreed to let the Government have the lease." Fall made it fairly plain to Beatty that Sinclair practically had the "in the bag."

Fall endeavored to save Beatty, however, by suggesting that the Government might sell the Texas Co. some of the royalty oil which was getting leases in Salt Creek field. A few days later Fall turned to Beatty on that subject, and Fall replied on April 6 that he was interested in the Salt Creek lease only in connection with a possible lease on Teapot Dome. Fall never replied, and a few days later he heard that Fall had leased the reserve to Sinclair.

The defense had made a great show of the circumstance that Sinclair agreed to build a pipe line from Teapot Dome, and also agreed to construct storage tanks for the government along the Atlantic coast. Beatty testified that Fall did not intimate to him that a pipe line and tanks were requisite to the lease.

14 KILLED, 40 INJURED BY EXPLOSION OF BOMB MEANT FOR KING OF ITALY

Delay in Arriving to Open Milan Fair Probably Saved Life of Monarch—He Cuts Ceremony Short to Visit Wounded.

By the Associated Press.
MILAN, April 12.—King Victor Emmanuel narrowly escaped death at the hands of assassins this morning, when a powerful bomb exploded in the Piazza Giulio Cesare. The King was on his way to open the Milan fair, but owing to a slight delay did not reach the spot at which the explosion occurred until 10 minutes later.

Fourteen persons were killed, most of them blown to pieces, and about 40 were injured. The infernal machine, a tube filled with high explosives, and controlled by a clock had been concealed inside the base of a lamp post.

The King, which the King's party was to follow, has been printed in the newspapers and the police think the bomb was set to explode at the precise moment the King was scheduled to pass.

King Orders Fists, Nevertheless.

There was a scene of terror and utter confusion when the sovereign appeared, accompanied by his suite and the municipal authorities. The bodies of the dead and injured were taken into the exhibition grounds, and King Victor immediately proceeded to carry out his duties of opening the fair.

As soon as possible the injured were removed to the hospital. The King displayed coolness, but showed anxiety for the wounded and for the families of the victims.

It was in order not to disappoint the organizers of the fair and the exhibitors, particularly foreign exhibitors, that he officiated at the inaugural ceremonies, which were cut short.

Visits the Wounded.

After making a hasty inspection of the exhibits, the King proclaimed: "Not I will my duty is elsewhere; I must go to the hospital."

When the King visited the hospital he spoke to each of the injured, expressing sympathy and saying he would take a personal interest in their recovery. On leaving the hospital he was greeted by an almost delirious demonstration from the crowds, which seemed unable to express sufficiently their joy at his escape.

Most of the killed and injured were women and children, who were awaiting in anticipation the coming of the King. The head of a girl who stood near the lamp post was severed. The lamp post was blown to fragments and the flying pieces, together with the glass contained in the bomb, were largely responsible for the slaughter.

Thirteen civilians and one soldier of the Fifth Alpine Regiment were killed. A baby girl, two brothers and a sister ranging in age from 5 to 8 and at least six women were among the dead. Three boys were seriously injured.

The King had arrived in the city about half an hour before the outrage, and had received an enthusiastic welcome. On his trip from the station to the royal palace, where he was received by the Milan authorities, all the streets were crowded. School children were lined up behind cordons of troops.

A preliminary list of the wounded received at the military hospital contained the name of Private Pietro Ratti of the Fifth Alpine regiment. Inquiries were immediately instituted to ascertain whether he is a relative of the Pope.

Newspapers published special editions displaying pictures of the King and printing enthusiastic articles paying tribute to the royal house.

Mussolini Personally Directs Hunt for Assassins.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, April 12.—Premier Mussolini personally supervised measures for discovery of those responsible for today's bomb explosion at Milan as soon as he received word of it.

The Premier had just finished a meeting with Prince Potemkin, Governor of Rome, when his direct wire connecting him with Milan brought news of the explosion.

He gave instructions himself for the search for the bombers. He also announced the dispatch of various inspectors-general of police from Rome to Milan.

The Premier sent congratulations to King Victor Emmanuel on his visit.

Imposing demonstrations of loyalty broke out all over Rome this afternoon and great crowds gathered in front of the Quirinal and cheered the King and the royal family.

FOUR GIRL STOWAWAYS FOUND ON U.S. CRUISER WHILE AT SEA

KEY WEST, Fla., April 12.—Four girls, who stowed away on the light cruiser Concord at New Orleans, were discovered while the vessel was at sea on the way to Philadelphia and landed here last night.

The girls, who said they were waitresses, told local authorities they were in New Orleans without funds and that they slipped aboard the Concord as the only available means of transportation to their homes in Philadelphia. Their presence in the vessel's hold was discovered by officers yesterday and a wireless message was sent immediately to the naval station here for a boat to meet the Concord off Sand Key and take them off.

The ship's officers, the girls' told naval authorities here, supplied them with funds to return to New Orleans. They gave their names as Billy Lacer, Rose McGuire, Flossie Rice and Ramilda Avary.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 12.—The police today announced receipt of information that 15-year-old Alberta Pool, missing high school girl, had been found aboard the destroyer Billingsley, which sailed from here Tuesday, and put ashore at Mayport, Fla. An investigation has been asked of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur by the girl's father, Joseph Pool.

PARDONS BOARD REFUSES TO STAY BIRGER EXECUTION

State's Attorney Boswell of Williamson County Makes Appeal in Murderer's Behalf.

WANTED TESTIMONY IN PRICE KILLING
Franklin County Prosecutor Scores Colleague for Seeking to Block Hanging Tomorrow.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 12.—The State Board of Pardons and Paroles today refused to stay the execution at Benton tomorrow of Charlie Birger, Illinois gangster, for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City.

State's Attorney Arlie Boswell of Williamson County had appeared before the board during the three-hour session this morning, in an effort to keep Birger from going to the gallows.

Boswell, who was defeated for renomination in last Tuesday's primary, asked for a stay of execution until May 6, asserting that he thought that by that time he could get Birger to give him valuable information for use in the trial of the slayers of Mrs. Lory Price, wife of the State Highway patrolman who also was killed by the Birger gang.

Martin Opposes Delay.

Vigorous opposition to postpone the execution of Birger was made by State's Attorney Hoy Martin of Franklin County, who successfully prosecuted Birger.

"Until some time yesterday," State's Attorney Martin said, "I never dreamed that any State's Attorney in Illinois would appear here and ask anything for Charlie Birger. I have here an affidavit from a Deputy Sheriff in Williamson County that he would prosecute Art Newman for the murder of Mrs. Price, and would use Birger as witness against Newman."

In response to Chairman Claghorn's inquiry if there was anything inconsistent in Boswell's appearance before the board, State's Attorney Martin said: "In my opinion the majority of the people in Williamson County don't think that Arlie Boswell wants to prosecute anyone for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Lory Price, especially Birger and Newman."

Deputy Cosimidis viewed the wounded youth at the hospital and identified Polito's gray cap, suit and overcoat as similar to those worn by one of the burglars, police reported.

Deputy Cosimidis said that after the burglars had two shots at him he had fired back six times, the youth in gray sank to his knees, but was assisted up by his companion, and both got away. When Polito arrived at the hospital his hands and knees were bruised.

Young Polito's Story.

Polito, who got a job yesterday in the city lighting department and lives with his father at 2708 Dayton street, related this story:

After playing cards with his brother at the Osceola street address from 8 p. m. until midnight, he started to drive home in his coupe and had reached Morganfield road and Bingham avenue when two men in another car crowded him to the curb and ordered him to stop. The westerly gale was blowing yesterday and he got stuck in his coupe and returned to his brother's house.

The brother said he heard a noise at his front door about 15 minutes after Raymond had departed. He opened the door, and Raymond, weak from loss of blood, staggered in. After John Polito had called a doctor, the youth was taken to the hospital.

Without officers were inclined to treat Polito's theory facetiously.

Alfred Goldsmith, chief broadcast engineer of the Radio Corporation of America, said: "The power received from wireless waves over a considerable portion of the ocean would not be strong enough to wake a mosquito. To plane radio waves for ocean storms is as fantastic as to suggest that the speed of a canary could start a cyclone."

Boswell told the board that he had visited Birger in his cell yesterday in Benton and that Birger had given him some important new information on the Price murders which he wanted him to investigate, with a view to preparing the State's case in the trial of the murderers of Mrs. Price.

He told the board that Birger replied that he knew Boswell was going, that "I've got plenty on him and he's got to go."

NICK POLITO'S SON SHOT; IS DETAINED FOR INVESTIGATION

Youth Declares He Was Wounded While Fleeing From Robbers in South St. Louis.

WELLSTON SHOOTING ALSO UNDER INQUIRY

Deputy Sheriff Reports Firing at Two Men Who Were Prowling Around Shoe Store.

Raymond Polito, 19-year-old son of Justice of the Peace Nicholas Polito, was shot in the right leg early today under circumstances which police are investigating.

Two hours before young Polito was taken to city hospital, a Deputy Sheriff guarding a Wellston bank had exchanged shots with two men who were breaking into a nearby shoe store. The burglars escaped.

The wounded youth denied he was in Wellston. He declared he was shot when he ran from highwaymen in South St. Louis.

Deputy Sheriff on Burglars.

At 12:05 a. m., Deputy Sheriff John Cosimidis, guarding the Wellston Trust Co., 6312 Easton avenue, which was robbed recently, saw two men prowling outside the shoe store of J. Alberts, 1489 Cockrell avenue, around the corner. The deputy called on the men to halt. They fired at him. He fired back. The pair escaped—presumably in an automobile, parked in an alley. A padlock on the shoe store door had been broken and the door forced open.

At 2 a. m. Polito was taken to the hospital by his elder brother, John Polito, 4221 Osceola street, Detachment Circuit Clerk. Pending investigation the wounded youth was ordered held a prisoner.

Deputy Cosimidis viewed the wounded youth at the hospital and identified Polito's gray cap, suit and overcoat as similar to those worn by one of the burglars, police reported.

A younger brother, Girard Polito, employed as messenger for the Chief of Police, was arrested last November after he had participated in six robberies and was left off with banishment from Missouri for three years. He was tried in juvenile court because his parents claimed his age was only 16.

Another brother, Elmer Polito, is a clerk at the Carr Street Police Station. The father is Republican City Committee man for the Fourth Ward.

REAL ESTATE MEN ADVISE CHANGES IN HOUSE TAX BILL

Counsel for National Organization Urges Committee to Modify Requirements for Capital Gains.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 12.—Recommendations for changes in the administrative provisions of the House tax reduction bill were made before the Senate Finance Committee today by representatives of real estate organizations.

Nathan William MacChesney, general counsel of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, urged the committee to remove the requirement that property must be held two years before profit from its disposal may be taxed under the capital gains tax provision.

Morris L. Ernst, on behalf of the Real Estate Board of New York, supported that contention and also asked that real estate holding companies be exempted from the new provision of the bill to penalize corporations formed for the evasion of surtax payments.

Objects to Yacht Tax.

Speaking to eight persons who are having yachts built in foreign countries, M. D. Ferris protested to the committee against the proposed increase in the tax on foreign built yachts. He ran into stiff opposition, however, several committee members contending yachts were luxuries. Ferris asked that the increase not be applied to yachts contracted for prior to last December and the committee pointed out that was provided for.

Charles Ledderer of Chicago, representing the National Retail Furniture Dealers' Association, proposed that modification of the law relating to taxation of installment sales, arguing the present regulation of the Government forced double taxation.

Pledge to Reduce Prices.

Pledging to pass on to the consumers in reduced prices any reduction in the automobile tax, the automobile industry presented a committee for repeal of the 3 cent automobile levy.

Spokesmen for the industry also paid their respects to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who asked the committee to restore to the bill this tax which was repealed by the House. Mellon argued that the manufacturers alone were behind the pro-Proprietary's repeal of the levy. The automobile people replied that the consumers of the cars would get all the benefit of the reduction and pledged themselves to this effect.

Arguments for repeal of the automobile tax were presented by the American Automobile Association, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, the National Grange and the National Automobile Dealers' Association.

Roy D. Chapin, president of the ACCOLAC FINISH . . . (added value!)

Now Armstrong Floors have a welcome added value—a durable, beautiful finish of Accolac. Accolac is a lacquer surface that not only lends a rich, semi-dull luster to Armstrong's Linoleum, but saves your time and effort by keeping them from getting dirt.

It is not ground into the floor; it stays on the surface; easily, quickly brushed up.

Learn all about aviation from the Von Hoffmann Aircraft School which is now conducting evening classes on this new means of transportation. If you know—an airplane is lifted into the air by suction—although your plane may be "dead" when you are in the air, the plane can be landed and a sailplane higher in the air are, the safer you are—that gives you better control of an airplane?

These are only a few of the many questions that will be answered for you in classes conducted in the City Club Building, 11th and Locust, beginning Tuesday evening, April 17th, at 7:30 P. M.

Class open to both men and women over 16 years of age. Enroll Now!

THE MORRIS PLAN

Have you learned the secret of getting the most out of life?

This Simply Means Getting
the Most Out of Income

JINCOME consists of what we can earn by work and what our savings or investments bring in.
Salaries and wages are the result of present occupation; interest and dividends are received as income from savings made in the past.

Income usually provides the necessaries that enable to keep body and soul together; such as shelter, food, raiment; it keeps us alive.

Income should do more than help us live. That is merely getting the least out of life. To get the most, we should have the things that give the real pleasures of life: good living; comfortable homes; advantages of education; travel and the fulfillment of other desires.

Learn how Morris Plan can help you get the most out of your income.

Judicious Borrowing as well as
Wise Saving Solves
Many Problems

Systematic spending is considered by Morris Plan as well as systematic thrift. Making loans for useful ends as well as aiding in the accumulation of income are some of its leading functions.

On top of that, financial counsel of the most practical sort is available—all of which help to get the most out of income

COMPLETE RETURNS ON ST. CLAIR VOTE

Anti-Small Ticket Headed by Emmerson Made Easy
Sweep in County.

Louis L. Emmerson, candidate for Governor, and his mates on the Republican anti-Small ticket in the Illinois primaries Tuesday, arrived St. Clair County, including East St. Louis, by easy margins, a complete tabulation of the vote showed today.

Emmerson won Gov. Small's former stronghold in the race for the gubernatorial nomination by a majority of 5322. The vote stands: Emmerson, 15,842; Small, 10,520.

For United States Senator, Otis F. Glenn, while behind Emmerson, defeated Frank L. Smith of the Small combination, 10,935, against 9,712.

Emmerson was triumphant in Madison County by a lead of nearly 7000. Complete, unofficial returns place the Emmerson vote at 17,739, against 10,809 for Gov. Small, reflecting the State-wide sweep of the Emmerson ticket.

Yates Led for Congress.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick of Chicago, winner for the nomination for Congressman-at-large on the Republican ticket, ran third in St. Clair County. Richard Yates, with 8059 votes, led, followed by Henry Rathbone, 7792; Mrs. McCormick, 7522, and A. T. Spiver, publisher of the East St. Louis Daily Journal, 5142.

Spivey, a candidate on the Small ticket, issued a statement attributing his poor showing in East St. Louis to "a double deal from men in charge of the Small campaign and the campaign funds." He accused the Small managers of backing him openly but opposing him secretly.

Spivey also lost his race for precinct committeeman in his home district at Signal Hill, outside East St. Louis, to Constable August Clossen by 13 votes.

The completeness of the Emmerson victory was indicated by the failure of E. Fred Gerold, a Small organization leader, to carry his own precinct in East St. Louis, the Fourteenth, for Gov. Small, 10,000.

Dr. Ed M. Irwin of Belleville, seeking a third term as Congressman from the Twenty-second District, rolled up such a lead in St. Clair County that his nomination in the district was assured by 10,000 votes. In St. Clair County the vote was Irwin, 15,871; Perry H. Hiles, Edwardsville, 6403. The district also includes Washington, Monroe, Madison and Bond counties. Dr. Irwin lost Bond and Madison, but his victories in the other two more than made up for the loss.

Enemy of Dog Racing Beaten.

Aside from the Emmerson-Small fight, the race for nomination as State's Attorney and for Coroner absorbed attention in Madison County. For State's Attorney Alvin C. Bohn of Edwardsville, incumbent, defeated by a vote of 15,935, against 8890; Joseph P. Schepers of Alton, former State's Attorney, who promised to stop greyhound racing in Madison County if he were elected. Bohn did not commit himself on the racing question.

Bohn also was elected State's Attorney for a short term. He was appointed last June to fill the unexpired term of Jesse R. Brown, who went to the Circuit Court.

After a neck-and-neck race in the race to return Edward Mercer of Granite City, former Coroner, defeated William H. Bauer of Alton for nomination as Coroner by a margin of nearly 1200.

Carlstrom, with 14,401 votes was far ahead of John Daily for the Republican nomination for Attorney-General. Daily's total was 5755.

In the race for the nomination for United States Senator the results were: Glenn, 11,102; Frank L. Smith, 10,033. The leading candidates for the two Republican nominations for Congressman-at-large were: Yates, 10,375; Mrs. McCormick, 10,242; Rathbone, 8203.

In St. Clair County Thomas F. Peletek Jr. and Edward P. Petri, both incumbents, were nominated for State Representatives from the Forty-ninth District on the Republican ticket.

East Side Levee Board.

For the East Side Levee Board, including parts of St. Clair and Madison counties, the nominees are: Republican—John D. Johns, Lee R. Newgent, Robert D. Schmidt, John W. Costley and Seth K. Cherrington; Democratic—Thomas J. Godfrey Sr., Stephen H. Keenan, Thomas D. Meehan, Earl W. Johnson and Frank Geppert.

Democratic primaries were overshadowed by the Republican races.

In St. Clair County the Democratic results have not been tabulated.

In Madison County there were no

Democratic contests of importance.

Faster, easier, deeper cleaning
"POSITIVE AGITATION"

There is but one test of an electric cleaner—it's ability to remove dirt.

In such a test, made under actual home conditions, the Hoover easily ranks first. It removes the most dirt per minute.

This means that in actual use the Hoover gives you fastest cleaning—easiest cleaning—deepest cleaning.

It does this because of "Positive Agitation," a remarkable and exclusive cleaning method which develops beating—the time-honored cleaning principle—to a new degree of efficiency.

The Hoover's ability to remove more dirt per minute has been repeatedly proved in tests. We shall be glad to demonstrate it to you in your own home. ## 12TH BOULEVARD EXTENSION ROUTE PUT UP TO BROOKS

Public Service Board Asks Street Director for Report Favoring Old or New Plan.

After a hearing by the Board of Public Service at City Hall last night on the proposed change of route for the extension of Twelfth boulevard from Washington avenue to Palm street, the question was referred to Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks for a report to the board in favor of either the old or new plan.

About 200 property owners of the area filled the board chamber to overflowing. When a leading proponent of the original route asked those who favored it to stand up, all but about 20 persons in the audience arose.

An ordinance for condemnation of the original route was passed in 1920 and commissioners worked on the property appraisal for two years, until last December, when they quit because they objected to features of the plan, chiefly on the claim of exorbitant cost.

The original route would take a strip from the east side of High street, between Washington avenue and O'Fallon street, while the proposed new one would take from the west side. The original would make a "square" turn into Cass avenue at Thirteenth street and out at Fifteenth street, while the new would cut diagonally from Thirteenth and Cass to Fifteenth and Howard. The original would follow Fifteenth street from Mulberry to Palm street, while the new would follow Blair avenue, a block east, and there would be a difference in the angle of junction with Palm as between the two routes.

The City Plan Commission laid out the original route, while Roy C. Gans, engineer of the Street Department, suggested the proposed change. Director Brooks must choose between the two schemes, subject to approval of the Board of Public Service. When the condemnation commissioners refused to continue with their task, Brooks took up the alternative prepared by his engineer, but protests from property owners and civic groups in the affected district finally caused the public hearing to be held.

Engineer Gans told the gathering the new route would be the better because it would eliminate an "S" turn at Cass, enter Palm at a better angle, avoid condemnation of costly property and splitting of city blocks, and would utilize Blair avenue, where residence land could be acquired cheaper than the commercial property on Fifteenth street.

William Sessinghaus of 1444 St. Louis avenue appeared as a principal proponent of the new route, pointing to numerous features involved which he thought would be improvements. Julius H. Drucker, an attorney, chairman of the condemnation commissioners, declared the original route was too expensive and would involve destruction of too many buildings. E. V. P. Schneiderhahn, an attorney, and several property owners also spoke in favor of the change.

Chief Condemnation Attorney Senn of the City Law Department stated that the change would cause a delay of at least two or two and a half years through renewal of the slow condemnation litigation.

Harland Bartholomew, engineer of the City Plan Commission, advocating retention of the original route made these points: The commission recommended it as the most satisfactory and cheapest after a year of study; the curve of the new route at Palm street would duplicate the situation objected to in the original at Cass and at Mulberry; the new route would create an "impossible traffic situation" by cutting over Cass at an angle instead of straight across; abandonment of the old plan would be unjust to property owners who have been adversely affected by the plan; hanging fire for eight years, and conceivably might give these persons claims against the city; the change "is actuated solely and exclusively by a desire upon the part of certain property owners to secure special benefits for themselves;" the change would increase the condemnation cost tremendously because values would be based on 1928 real estate worth rather than 1920; no valid reasons for the change have been advanced; the new route would be out of harmony with the projected double-deck thoroughfare along the river front, which would have its north end at Thirteenth and Mulberry; the original route would facilitate movement of trolley cars on Fifteenth; the new route would destroy Biddle Market and leave no site for its reconstruction.

—may enjoy the choicest of foods
at a surprisingly moderate cost

If you shop or are in business in down-town St. Louis your time is valuable. An easy pleasant way to save time is to eat your noon-day meal at one of our conveniently located Thompson's Pure Food Restaurants.

You are just as welcome there as is your husband or brother. You may not know, however, that tables are provided in a comfortable second-floor dining room in case you prefer them. The menu varies somewhat from the food served on the first floor, but the quality, in every respect, is just as choice. There is no better food to be had anywhere than you may enjoy daily at Thompson's.

We invite you to visit the nearest Thompson's Restaurant today. We believe you will feel repaid for taking the little time necessary to sit down comfortably and enjoy an appetizing noon-day meal.

YEARLY KILL OF WHALES IS GREATEST IN HISTORY
It Was 25,400 in 1927; Extinction Menaces Some Species of Sea Mammals.

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON, April 12.—The whaling days of romance and history, when New Bedford was the center of this great adventurous industry, are long past, but more whales are killed now than ever before.

The center of operations has changed from New England and the North Atlantic to the Falkland Islands, and the Antarctic, and the oil, while no longer needed for illumination, is in growing demand, chiefly for the manufacture of soap and also for use in cosmetics, lard substitutes, and candles, and for the making of glycerine.

The whalers, Norwegians instead of Yankees, are pursuing the whales all the seas of the earth with such intensity that Lewis Radcliffe, a deputy commissioner of the Bureau of Fisheries, expressed concern before the American Society of Mammalogists yesterday that some species were threatened with extinction.

He presented figures obtained from Frederick H. Meissner of the Tariff Commission, showing that the kill has risen from 11,400 whales in 1921 to 25,400 in 1927 and the production of the oil had increased to 61,000,000 gallons. At the peak of New Bedford's glory as the principal whaling port, in 1854, the American output was only a little more than 12,000,000 gallons, and that represented more than 75 per cent of the world production.

Four Mules Killed in Fire.
Four mules were suffocated or burned to death and five frame sheds were destroyed by a fire discovered at 1:30 a. m. today in the wooden building in the rear of 6025 Prescott avenue. Damage was estimated at $1500. The fire spread to the other sheds in the rear of 705 Clarence avenue and 702-4-6 Pope avenue.

Finds Pep and Solace in One Tobacco

Cincinnati, Ohio
June 1, 1927

Lorus & Bro. Co.,

Richmond, Va.

Gentlemen:

My good old pipe has just resumed me of a dozen promises to write a bit of appreciation of its affinity—Edgeworth.

Fate, kind or otherwise, has drawn me into a line of work that calls for the very utmost expenditure of nervous energy, talk and penance. I can think of many more pleasant things than conducting fund-raising campaigns for hospitals, churches, etc.

When you are up against a barrage of questions by excitable women, doubtful men, and self-confident millionaires, trying to harmonize the whole in an effort to raise thousands of dollars, you may now grow before well, you need a Pe-Pipe like that's all.

And when the day's work is done, along toward midnight, what a blessed solace comes with the first draw of Edgeworth. Then my pipe and I hold a real conference, and the obstacles fade away with the smoke. Then we wonder why they should have bothered us at all.

I feel privileged to speak because a can a day is my measure of appreciation. The old pipe O.K.'s this letter and insists that without Edgeworth we could not have raised the thousands of dollars we did.

Good old Hod! Good old Edgeworth!

Sincerely yours,

William H. Arbogast

CHURCH MEMBERSHIP INCREASES 573,723

Figures for 1927 Show Decrease in the Number of Pastors.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, April 12.—American church membership gained 573,723 in 1927, with two branches of the Catholic, the Roman, and the Polish National, making combined gains of 183,889 members. The 46 bodies of the Methodists showed gains of 150,910.

The figures are compiled by H. K. Carroll in the Christian Herald, who finds that the situation is decidedly more encouraging than at the close of the preceding year, and that churches given to evangelism have scored heartening net increases in membership.

Presbyterians as a group lost 13,508 with the new members considered, although Southern Presbyterians alone were dropped away from the church to the number of 22,566.

The Disciples of Christ engaged in unusual evangelistic activities in 1926, but suffered a decrease in membership. The 1927 campaign, however, is seen as bearing fruit in 1927, with the addition of 44,081 members, which placed the Disciples of Christ fourth among all churches from the standpoint of new strength.

While congregations are growing, the number of ministers and churches is dropping, indicating a strong centralizing movement in both pastors and religious offices. The number of ministers serving churches in the United States in 1927 showed a net loss of 1387, and 1470 fewer churches were found than in 1926. The condition is one described as "truly heavy and deserving of attention and study," but no theory as to its cause is advanced other than that the popularity of mergers is reaching to congregations in all parts of the nation.

The Church of Christ Scientist discontinued in 1909 its practice of furnishing figures regarding its membership. In 1909 the office made the usual compilation of members of this church, and in 1926 the church again consented to have it done. The return, contained in this table, showed that in the 20 years between countings the sect grew from 63,717 to 62,028 members. This increase averaged 6819 annually.

The increase in all churches in 1926 was slightly short of 490,000. Aside from being larger, the gains of 1927 are described as being of a more general nature. Dropping of inactive and absentee members proved a heavy drain on membership figures, and the churches have doubled activities to halt the loss. The efforts include speeding up evangelistic work, and plans for getting on the trail of the absentees more quickly and effectively.

The census result follows:

Roman Catholic	16,735,691
Methodist Episcopal	4,832,004
Southern Baptist	3,785,901
National Baptist (Negro)	2,525,352
Methodist Episcopal (South)	2,567,962
Presbyterian, U. S. A.	1,885,727
Disciples of Christ	1,451,376
Northern Baptist	1,322,820
Protestant Episcopal	1,190,928
Congregationalist	914,638
United Lutheran	890,671
African Methodist Episcopal	781,692
Lutheran (Missouri Synod)	645,345
Latter Day Saints	567,213
American Methodist Episcopal Zion	500,000
United Brethren in Christ	328,946

TEN INDICTED IN $7,000,000 STOCK FRAUD BY MAIL

Three Officers and Seven Employees of Cameron, Michel & Co., Inc., of New York Accused.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 12.—Accused of conspiracy to use the mails to defraud in a nation-wide stock scheme, three officers of Cameron, Michel & Co., Inc., a stock brokerage concern now in the hands of a receiver, seven employees and two corporations were indicted by the Federal grand jury yesterday.

Through a national mail campaign, authorities said, the group fraudulently disposed of $7,000,000 in stock in the Canario Copper Co.

and the Canario Copper Co., Inc., to purchasers in all parts of the country.

Among false representations alleged to have been made were statements that $6,000,000 in ore was being mined monthly by the Canario Copper Co., that the Canario corporation had $1,200,000 in bank on July 15, 1925, and that its earnings were about 50 per cent of the par value of the stock of that company, or nearly 150 per cent of stock, costing around $4.

It also was charged that properties of the two copper concerns consisting of 1347 acres in Nacozari, State of Sonora, Mexico, were fraudulently reported about to be developed into "rich producing copper mines."

Stock of the Canario Copper Co. enjoyed a boom in 1925, but later collapsed and its stock was removed from the Curb market.

Those indicted are George H. Shurtleff, Herbert C. Locke and John T. Locke, officers of the defunct Cameron, Michel & Co., Inc., John Carter Anderson, mining engineer; Oscar Regel, newspaper writer; Harry C. Carrigher, Oscar G. Funky, Harry B. Cutches, Richard Blechner and W. H. Day, employees in the corporation's office, the American Holding Co., Inc.

Ralph Cameron, former United States Senator from Arizona, resigned as head of Cameron, Michel & Co. Jones before the occurrence of any of the incidents on which the complaints were based.

ROBBERS GET $600 SHIRT STUD AND $100 AT FURNITURE STORE

Two Armed Men Hold Up Sam Lasky at 1406 Franklin; Miss Monroe in Safe.

Two men, one of them armed with a pistol, held up the furniture store of Sam Lasky, 1406 Franklin avenue, this afternoon, took $100 from the cash register and Lasky's $600 diamond shirt stud, and fled. While one man was rifling the register till, the other jerked Lasky's stud from his shirt.

The safe in the store, which contained several hundred dollars, was not molested. Police believe the robbers went to the store with foreknowledge of the diamond, its value being a frequent topic of neighborhood conversation.

ALLEN HALL AND REISELT BEAT LEADERS IN BILLIARD TOURNAMENT

COPULOS AND REISELT PASS WILLIE HOPPE

Johnny Layton Suffers His Second Defeat in Losing to Fellow St. Louisian — Hall Meets Hoppe.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, April 12.—Two former leaders in the national three-cushion billiards tournament, Willie Hoppe of New York, and John Layton of St. Louis, today sought to regain first place after last night's disastrous games.

Layton was tumbled from the top tie by Allen Hall of St. Louis, who was in fifth place; Willie Hoppe lost to Otto Reiselt, defending champion of Philadelphia, in a close match. Reiselt and Gus Copulos of Detroit each with five victories and two defeats, were at the head of the list.

The Hoppe-Reiselt game was one of the best of the tournament.

Hoppe overcame the Philadelphian's early lead with almost faultless playing. The count was tied at 49 in the fifty-ninth inning, but in the sixty-third Reiselt set the point which gave him game.

Todays' games: Layton vs. Copulos; Hoppe vs. Hall.

The standings:

	W.	L.	R.
Copulos, Detroit	5	2	8
Reiselt, Philadelphia	5	2	8
Hoppe, New York	4	2	6
Layton, St. Louis	4	2	7

New England Is Ready for 31st Marathon Race

Runners Will Try to Lower De Mar's Record in Event, April 19.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON.—The Boston Marathon, the yearly repetition of the famous run of Pheidippides from the Plains of Marathon to the wall of Athens in the year 490 B. C., will be run again on April 19, for the thirty-first day, for the thirty-first time.

The New England Marathon, and the celebration of the battles of Concord and Lexington, the opening skirmishes of the American Revolution, are concurrent thoughts on April 19.

The Marathon, all over the country, is known as the hardest race of its kind, starting out in Ashland and traversing its 26 miles and odd yards over the hills of Wellesley and the Newtons into the heart of the city of Boston.

Marathon runners from all the clubs of the country and Canada have participated in the Boston Athletic Association run and the honorees have not been limited to a particular section of the country. White and red men, Northerners and Southerners, Canadians and Americans all have had their chance at the coveted honor of winning the Boston Marathon.

First Place in 1890.

The first race was run back in 1890, when J. J. McDermott of New York raced over the course at the head of the small pack of distance stars.

Three years later, in the fourth race, F. J. Coffey of Hamilton, Ont., won the contest, and the following year did the unexpected and stupendous stunt of repeating, incidentally setting a new record for the event of 2 hours, 39 minutes 44 seconds.

This record stood the test of five years of running and then fell before the onslaught of the winged feet of "Indian Tom" Longboat, a Canadian Redman from Toronto, in 1907. The Indian's time was 2 hours 24 minutes 24 seconds.

Clarence de Mar won the event in 1911, his first victory, and then faded temporarily from the picture. Miss Ryan, present Colby College and Olympic athlete, was the first man at the A. E. A. clubhouse in 1912. The next three years saw first places being taken by Fritz Carlton of Minneapolis, Jim Duffy of Hamilton, Ont., and Edward Fabre, a black-haired French-Canadian from Montreal.

De Mar holds record.

Bill Kennedy, the bricklayer Marathoner; Pete Trivoliades, a Greek; Carl Linder, Finish-American star; Frank Zuna, New York plumber, and Clarence de Mar, the printer runner from Melrose, Mass., probably the greatest running star in the world today, have also been winners of the long Ashland-to-Boston grueling.

De Mar changed the record on his first win in 1911, only to have Frank Zuna bring the mark down to 2 hours 18 minutes 57.3 seconds in 1921.

Not a bit phased, De Mar carried his second triumph in 1922, breaking the mark of Zuna by seconds.

Roettger Out, Sliding Into Third

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

The play came in the first inning of yesterday's opening game and followed a double by the Cardinal left-fielder, driving in two runs. Tracy is on the bag, with Sherwood Magee, former star batter, making his debut as a National League umpire, calling the runner out.

Heyler Talks of Hornsby Derby.

The National League president stated that only results of the national league would show the New Jersey reaction toward the two teams.
Hornsby to Boston. He assured however, that it was the consensus of New York critics that the team had given more than it deserved.

"This, however, will all be forgotten by the fans if the game is won," he added.

Hedder saw Dazzy Vance, who was determined by the personnel of the All-East

Wacker Drive Will Be One of Hopes Of West in Kentucky Derby, May 19

Colt Won $21,340 in Purses for Owner Coughlin
Last Season — Has Had Trouble With His Wind.

No. 4—DERBY CANDIDATES

Wacker Drive.

Wacker Drive, one of many junior supporters of the All-East team have written to the Post-Dispatch to inquire how the selection of the American Olympic team will be made: Whether the winners of the St. Louis-All-Eastern eliminations, scheduled next Sunday will be sent as a unit, or whether an all-star squad picked from several soccer centers will be chosen.

According to a resolution passed at the last gathering of the United States Football Association at the Corinthian Hotel, here, it was agreed that the winning team, an elimination series would be sent as a unit.

If the committee which is to view Sunday's final soccer elimination game here decides the make up of the eleven in any other way, it therefore will be violating the spirit of the resolution and the sense of the U. S.
F. A. gathering.

Change Would Be Unfair

THE fact that the committee already has named an American Rhodes scholar who has been playing in England, Ed
Lindeloh, to represent America indicates that the all-star plan may be followed. If it is, the American team's prospects may be considerably weaker.

Also, St. Louis will have a right to feel aggrieved, since it developed and maintained its Olympic soccer entry on the strength of the resolution stating that the team winning the elimination final would be recognized as America's representative.

As this city showed not only enterprise in developing a team but earned a lot of money for the fund and produced a winner, any change from the original plan would seem most unfair.

OKLAHOMA UNIVERSITY

DEFEATS CORNHUSKERS

IN DUAL TRACK MEET

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NORMAN, Ok., April 12—Oklahoma's chances for winning the conference outdoor track meet at Lincoln next month were given another boost when the powerful Nebraska team was turned back 66-2-3 to 64-1-3 in a dual meet here yesterday. The Sooners have only their meeting with the Oklahoma Aggies May 11 in the way of their four straight year without a defeat in dual meets. The smaller crew of Oklahomans won by taking 19 of the 15 places on the card, while Nebraska took 10 seconds and the two teams split even on third place.

The summary:

DEMPSEY AGAIN DECLARES HE IS THROUGH WITH RING FOR GOOD

STATES HE HAS ENOUGH MONEY FOR HIS NEEDS

Admits He Is Only 40 Per Cent the Fighter He Was When He Was Champion of the Universe.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 12.—Jack Dempsey, once a lean, hungry youth who rode into New York on brake-beams to fight for bean money, was back in town today, a wealthy, well-fed business man with hisistic career behind him.

His arrival was a far cry to the day in 1916 when the bronzed youngster from the mining camps of Colorado rode into the metropolis in search of fame. If there was a dining car on that train it was in the caboose and there was no place there for a Dempsey to work out the kinks that came of "riding the rods."

Dempsey then would fight anyone—and he did. His sweeping fists, the lure of his ring personality and ferocity, and the courage that pulled him back to score a knockout after Luis Firpo hammered him out of the ring, made Jack the greatest drawing card in the history of sport. With him came million-dollar crowds, then $2,000,000, and finally a gate close to $3,000,000 for his last stand against Gene Tunney in Chicago last September.

Has Had Enough.
Now, Dempsey, still possessing the major part of the $2,500,000 his granite fists have earned, believes that the time has come to quit the game for good, before the thudding gloves of a Tunney or the punches of a younger man strip him of both health and reason. Ring history is full of examples of men who stayed beyond their time, for just one more big purse—and ended their days cutting paper dolls in a psychopathic ward. Dempsey, however, now has declared through 18 years—"long enough," he declares.

Ever since his first engagement, fear of going blind has haunted Dempsey's career. Always an easy man to fit, ready at any time to take two punches for the chance to land one, the Manassa Mauler was a mark for Tunney's sharp-shooting right hand the night he lost the title to the scholarly marine in the downpour at Philadelphia. After that defeat, Dempsey spent two weeks in a dark room with the left side of his face a green and purple mass of bruised flesh.

Has All Money He Needs.
Again at Chicago last September Dempsey's eyes were cut and torn. In the tenth round, Tunney's head rimmed open a triangular gash over the left eye that severed a tendon and since has led to the report that the former champion was going blind. The injury did not impair his sight, however. Although Jack lost control of his eyelid for a time and suffered hemorrhages behind the eyeball, he wouldn't fight again for $50,000,000. I have all the money I need. I can walk around. I know what time it is and I want to stay that way. Because Rickard is my pal, he knows I'm through; that I'm only 40 per cent of what I was as champion. He was the first to agree with me."

WEBSTER TRACK TEAM DEFEATS ST. LOUIS U. HIGH IN DUAL MEET

Webster Groves High School, which held the county league track championship for almost 20 consecutive years, gave indication of again turning out a winner by defeating St. Louis U. High at Webster Field yesterday afternoon, 55 to 57.

Webster entrants placed first in seven events, second in eight, third in nine and fourth in four events. The Junior Billikens captured six titles, five seconds, 4 thirds, and four fourths.

St. Louis won the first three events on the program, the 100, 220 and 440-yard dashes. In the discus throw, the Junior Billikens took all the places, Kennedy winning with a throw of 38 feet, 6 inches.

The summaries:

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 12.—

—Senator Reed's presidential campaign is encountering extremely cold blooded practical politics in Indiana and when the Senator departs from the state tonight after a speech in South Bend, he is not likely to know anything certain about his chances for the 30 Indiana votes in the Houston Convention or any very considerable part of them.

Indiana Democratic politics is now Taggart, long the boss and the supreme power in the state. There are those who say his influence is waning, and that Taggart is willing to listen now to nominations where he was wont to command. But that is to be taken with at least a modicum of doubt.

The veteran Democratic chief was on hand to greet Reed when he arrived just before dinner last night, and his lieutenant, Charles A. Greathouse, Democratic National Committee man, was close by. Taggart introduced Reed to his Indianapolis audience in a complimentary speech in which he was very careful about nothing which could commit him to Reed's candidacy or to the candidacy of anyone else, except Evans Woolen of Indiana, who was brought out to Taggart several months ago as a "favorite son" candidate and a convenient cloak behind which to hide his real intentions.

Reception Means Nothing. Taggart's reception of Reed and the fact that they conferred privately, doesn't mean anything necessarily, though it might mean a great deal. In all probability means nothing just now.

True to the rules of the old political game, Taggart says nothing to indicate where he will be when the time of the real voting begins in the convention. He is for Woolen and has had all the time, which any Indiana politician knows counts, so he can turn himself into a convenient cloak behind which to hide his real intentions.

His voice cleared materially as he progressed with his speech and he had the audience of nearly 5000 cheering loudly time after time. Several times he brought hundreds of his hearers to their feet and once he had such a callous and seasoned veteran as Taggart himself shouting his approval.

The Tomlinson Hall in which Reed spoke was crowded to its doors, and the audience was one of the most enthusiastic Reed has had in a long tour characterized by responsive crowds.

Read explained at the outset of his speech that he was not seeking to lure any delegates away from Woolen, and that he expected Woolen to get the delegation. Of course, he doesn't expect him to keep it very long and it was against the time when he would lose it that Read was playing.

Read devoted the greater part of his speech to Republican corruption, but he placed particular emphasis on his appeal for abandonment of racial and religious prejudices.

Notwithstanding the Ku Klux organization has distinguished itself to a considerable extent, this probably the strongest knot in the country, and the anti-Catholic and anti-Smith sentiment still is very strong. Taggart probably will not risk going too far, and it seems a safe inference that will offer no objections to the interest of decency in public affairs, will not come back again.

"His reputation by the Republicans of Illinois is one of the most hopeful signs I have seen, and bears out a conviction which has come to me in my tour of the country that the Republicans as well as the Democrats are awakened to the deplorable conditions which exist and are determined to clean up the Government.

"When reform can reach into the Republican party, surely there is a real hope for the United States of America.

"I would say that the result of the Illinois Republican primary might be a warning to some of the Republican candidates who have opposed even the insurgents to bring down the Government. They can take heed and if they do, the thing may be said as to Reed, that he would be satisfactory to us, but he is not going to be caught on the losing side, if he can help it.

On the early ballots the entire Indiana vote will go to Woolen, but it probably will be split. Reed has a real strength in the State and the delegation were left to follow his own inclination. Reed would be a considerable factor. This is the opinion of informed Democrats.

Taggart was an attentive listener to the Reed meeting last night, occupying a front seat on the stage. He had introduced the Senator. The introductory speech was affected by the general strike yesterday when all hands quit work upon noticing that the soldiers who struck Tuesday had been replaced by new men. The strike centers around the principles of collective bargaining.

Ford in First Public Speech Says 29 Words

Notables of London Meet Automobile Manufacturer and wife at Dinner in Their Honor — Houghton Introduces Him.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 12.—Henry Ford broke all records for short speeches last night at a complimentary dinner given to him and Mrs. Ford by the American Society. His oratory was packed into just 29 words.

It had been anticipated that automobile manufacturer would make the first speech of his life, and when the speaker numbered nearly as many as the diners themselves, had lined the walls in anticipation. This is what they heard:

"I just want to say that Mrs. Ford and myself are greatly honored to be present to meet so many distinguished representatives of two great nations. I thank you."

Ambassador Houghton was scheduled to introduce the Detroiters at the dinner but instead introduced the diners to their guest of honor.

"If anybody hasn't heard of Mr. Ford," he said, "he must live near the cemetery." Therefore, I take the liberty of introducing the audience to the man, rather than the man to the audience."

There were cheers, and somebody started singing, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." A cheer also was given for Mrs. Ford.

There was silence then and every eye turned to Ford. Apparently with some hesitancy he arose and without any ceremony began his speech. As he took his seat there were some murmurs of "More?" heard around the hall, but Henry Ford had had his say.

350 Attend Dinner.

Some 350 representatives of the American colony and of British industries, the church and the state, were present.

Among those invited were William Morris, known as "The King of England," Dean and Mrs. Ingle, the Lord Viscount Curzon, Sir Harry Batson, many members of Parliament, Mrs. Foster, Welch, Mayor of Southampton; Capt. Malcolm Campbell, holder of the world's automobile speed record; the American Ambassador and Mrs. Houghton, Gordon Selfridge and Harvey Firestone.

The decorative scheme of the caused a huskiness, making his voice almost inaudible at the beginning of the speech, had his audience with him.

His voice cleared materially as he progressed with his speech and he had the audience of nearly 5000 cheering loudly time after time. Several times he brought hundreds of his hearers to their feet and once he had such a callous and seasoned veteran as Taggart himself shouting his approval.

The Tomlinson Hall in which Reed spoke was crowded to its doors, and the audience was one of the most enthusiastic Reed has had in a long tour characterized by responsive crowds.

Read explained at the outset of his speech that he was not seeking to lure any delegates away from Woolen, and that he expected Woolen to get the delegation. Of course, he doesn't expect him to keep it very long and it was against the time when he would lose it that Read was playing.

Read devoted the greater part of his speech to Republican corruption, but he placed particular emphasis on his appeal for abandonment of racial and religious prejudices.

Comments on Illinois Primary.

He commented upon the defeat of Frank L. Smith in the Republican senatorial primary in Illinois Tuesday, saying:

"Mr. Smith, who has made several journeys to the delegate booths, has been all the time, in the interest of decency in public affairs, will not come back again, if the anti-Smith forces could decide that only with Reed could they defeat Smith."

Taggart's Dubious Stand.

Taggart may be expected to draw his influence to the candidates who he thinks can win. If he should develop strength sufficient to push over the line of Taggart's influence with the Indiana delegation, the influence undoubtedly would go to him, and the thing may be said as to Reed, that he would be satisfactory to us, but he is not going to be caught on the losing side, if he can help it.

When reform can reach into the Republican party, surely there is a real hope for the United States of America.

NEW YORK, April 12.—By a vote, reported to be in the ratio of about two to one, the National Affairs Committee of the National Republican Club adopted a resolution yesterday demanding a plank favoring the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment in the Republican national platform.

"This vindicates Chicago," the citizenry says. "Conditions may be bad but Chicago is sound at heart."

Mayor Thompson is flat on his back. State's Attorney Crowe is flatter than that. And Gov. Len Small is absolutely sunk. The landslide caused by an aroused electorate marching to the polls—750,000 Republicans in Chicago alone—astounds even the most sanguine.

The Republican vote Tuesday in the State apparently exceeded 1,500,000, which is in excess of the Republican vote for President Coolidge in 1924—1,453,321. In that year the total vote in the State was 2,470,067. In the senatorial primary in 1926, the Republican vote totaled only 1,146,794—624,023 for F. L. Smith and 522,771 for W. B. McKinley.

Butler May Lead Wet Group.

Whether or not the club itself affirms the action of the committee, it is probable that yesterday's discussion heralds a similar one before the Resolution Committee of the G. O. P. convention. Nichols Murray Butler, who has been elected to represent after a contest with the drys, was one of those who attended the committee gathering.

The understanding was that he would become the leader of the wet group.

The only crumb that fell to him in the primary were the three trustees of the sanitary district, control of the County Commission and the office of Coroner. He was taking some satisfaction, publicly, from these victories, but it is believed here he is more occupied with making plans for the coming investigation. The people will want a lot of explaining then.

They want to know why Octavio Granaday, the Negro opponent of the Crowe-Thompson candidate, Morris Eller, for committeeman of the twentieth ward, was assassinated by hoodlums after an automobile chase less than two hours after the polls had closed. The candidate for ward committee who was opposing Crowe, Thompson, candidate, was murdered by shotgun hoodlums within three weeks—Diamond Joe Espinoza and now Granada. A grand jury investigation directed by Carlstrom into election frauds certainly will embrace these crimes.

They will also be the Deneen charges of plans to steal the primary in four Chicago wards. More than 200 precincts were held back until the flood of votes was so great that a seal in this number of precincts could make no difference in the results.

The Senator also declares his men were beaten, slugged and ejected from polling places to permit Thompson adherents to take the ballots to rear rooms and "fix" them while police stood by and did nothing.

The latest available figures from the 664 precincts in the State, for the various Republican offices give:

GOVERNOR—6016 Precincts—Emerson, 959,728; Small, 551,487 (including 2800 Cook County precincts). Emerson, 465,367; Small, 253,202.

"This vindicates Chicago," the citizenry says. "Conditions may be bad but Chicago is sound at heart."

Transportation Within Forest Park.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

MUCH is being done to improve Forest Park. Additions to the Zoo, new recreational features, new exhibits at the Art Museum, new nursery exhibit, etc. Much publicity is being given to all of this and more and more people are heading the urge to visit these features at Forest Park.

We wonder if the city government has taken into consideration that it is time to provide facilities to transport the ever-growing throngs through Forest Park in such a manner that people with families who do not have automobile transportation, can enjoy these features of our city without the tremendous fatigue that goes with walking from either the north or south entrance, where transportation now stops.

We suggest that you try to walk from Pershing and DeBaliviere on some hot Sunday, making the rounds of the Zoo or the Art Museum and then back to the street car. The pleasures that you may have enjoyed are somewhat diminished by the fatigue for several days after, and we believe that in this fast growing city of ours, some transportation facility should be provided, straight through the park from the Lindell boulevard-DeBaliviere entrance, permitting a regular service with one fare transfer privilege for transportation outside the park.

We believe that the present park bus system is undoubtedly the best that can be had, but it is very inadequate and one is called upon to pay a fare, while we believe that some public-spirited organization such as the New Public Service Company should be induced to operate a bus service with transfer privilege to either north or south side street car lines. A PROGRESSIVE VOTER.

Not an Isolated Case.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch,
NOTED with interest the letter of F. J. Biddeford as to the acute unemployment situation. I would like to say his experience is not an isolated one. I have been trying in vain for the past two months to obtain a position. I am thoroughly trained in all branches of office routine. But it seems there are many girls in the same predicament.

The employment leeches seem to control the situation by having someone in each business office who makes it a point to take help only from these agencies. At present you cannot even BUY a job. About a week ago, an agency sent me to a certain firm. I was given the third degree as to my ability, etc., then sent to report to the same.

I told the manager I didn't have quite enough to pay down. I lacked about $4 of the necessary cash. I was given some excuse that the firm where I was sent had decided negatively. I have worn out about three pairs of shoes, not counting all the rebuffs from supercilious secretaries. If I were not born, reared and educated here in St. Louis, I would feel differently.

So, Mr. Biddeford, take heart. Maybe some of our St. Louis capitalists, who are such generous contributors to the reptilian and zoological education of the masses at large, will see fit to pay their common employee a living wage.

M. L. S.

We Are Chided.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch,
ALL of the things you say about Illinois are not prompted by first-hand knowledge. Could not be, because they are not true. After reading your editorials, "Tomorrow in Illinois," and "Charlie Birger's Petition for Mercy," I am reminded that you travel far afield in search of corruption and gangsters to smite.

One could easily be persuaded that you could probably have smote a smile at those selfsame conditions in your own city where, one would surmise, you are better acquainted with the conditions and facts concerning lawlessness and petty politics than you seem to be with ours.

You say it is unthinkable that the Governor of Illinois could head the petition of 6000 citizens of the country wherein Birger is to be executed, to extend his clemency. The only person who could not be influenced to do the unthinkable thing of considering the will of 6000 people would be some dodging idiot or editorial writer.

D. W. EBERHARDT.

A Protest.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch,
I WAS very much surprised and quite disappointed to note on your editorial page Saturday, April 7, the following:

"Such visions have been evoked by Dr. Al Sharpe's flat the football could head the petition of 6000 citizens of the country which was evidently intended as a warning and, which, of course, to all Christian people was, to say the least, an evidence of extremely bad taste if not worse."

We do not know whether the foot-washing ritual is observed in Italy or not, but, if so, it is clear whose feet Victor Emmanuel would be called upon to wash.

It would seem to me that the editor of a great paper like the Post-Dispatch would not once realize that this protest is not to be lightly treated and that his apology should be just as public as his alleged whitewash.

CHRISTIAN.

A DAY'S WORK IN ILLINOIS.

Illinois did a great day's work on Tuesday. By burying Len Small, confirming the political death of Frank L. Smith, routing Crowe and repudiating Thompson, she met the highest expectation of sound public opinion. She reassured the doubters and cynics who think democracy is moribund that sovereignty does abide in the people and that given sufficient cause, public sentiment will "turn the rascals out."

Certainly Illinois had sufficient cause. Len Small's incumbency of the office of Governor was not only a disgrace to Illinois but was a reproach to the principle of popular government. This man's unfitness for a public trust was proclaimed by his sinister associations, by his brazen misuse of patronage, by his craven inaction in the face of organized outlawry and by his official dishonesty as recorded by judgment of the courts.

Nothing but their insolent confidence in the power of the machine they had constructed could have persuaded Small and the discredited Smith again to seek preference from the people of Illinois. They have been answered. They are finished. Similarly, the bombs and terrorism of the Thompson-Crowe conspiracy in Chicago has been answered.

The Post-Dispatch knows little about the men to whom the Republicans of Illinois have turned in the hope of an honest, competent administration of public affairs. But everybody knows what those men will, if elected, be obliged to do.

Mr. Emperson will be expected to be Governor of Illinois, not a political boss concerned only with the spoils of office. Mr. Glenn will be expected to be a Senator from Illinois, not the servant of wealthy interests, not the protege of Insull. Judge Swanson will be expected to cut the ties that apparently have bound the State's Attorney's office with Chicago's underworld.

Such is the substance of the promises those men made in the primary canvass. Whether they keep their pledges depends largely on the people of Illinois. Eternal vigilance is the price of good government. If these men fail it will be the duty of Illinois to repudiate them as they have Small and Smith and Crowe and keep on choosing other men until the right men have been found.

That is the burden of intelligent citizenship which rests upon the people of Illinois, the people of every other state and of the United States.

Without such vigilance popular government is a pretense. Without such vigilance democracy cannot endure.

OTTO KEMMERICH AND THE SEA LION.

When Otto Kemmerich of Hamburg undertook to break the world's swimming record, he conceived the most ideal companion during the test to be Leo, his pet sea lion. Presumably Leo would be interested to the point of matching his flippers against the crawl stroke of his boss. As it turned out, Leo was profoundly indifferent and could not awake within himself a spark of rivalry. Leo drugged for 10 hours and then went to sleep. He was goaded from slumber by a meal of fresh herring. After consuming 35 pounds of the tidbit, Leo took up the burden once more, but his whiskers drooped and there was a languid look in his eye. As Otto continued, Leo was laid out of the water, full of herring and inertia.

To us this seems a magnificent piece of unconscious criticism. If Leo could talk, we can imagine this piece of dialogue when Otto climbed out of the water:

THE HAPPIEST ACCOMPLISHMENT.

Having speculated within a few days upon the happiest man and the happiest period, we are invited by no one less than Bobby Jones to consider what is the happiest accomplishment.

To Bobby, of course, golf has this distinction. He says it cannot be played right without giving the mind up to it utterly, but he promises that if we do this we will be happier than anything else possibly could make us.

THE BOTTLED KNIGHTS.

During his Premiership Lloyd George elevated three distillers to the peerage, and labor propagandists are now recalling this knightly episode with taunt and jeer. The man who blended Black and White into amber harmony, the chap who made Johnny Walker a cosmopolitan of charm and camaraderie are ennobled, and a third galloped into the circle of social supremacy on the back of White Horse.

Just how or in what degree Lloyd George violated the traditions in this promotion we do not know. The ways to the peerage have changed with the changing manners and times, but they have always been the roads charted by Success. Muscle was the talisman that won the royal recognition when a flashing sword wielded by a stout arm was a King's prime desideratum. Feudalism passed, capitalism came, the supremacy of brawn yielded to the subtler technique of brain, the fighter disappeared in desuetude, money spoke with authority. The tourney is a dim legend. Now cradles the Lords.

Within our narrow experience White Horse has left no footprint. But the festive fame of Black and White and Johnny Walker is as far-flung, as he be. He is, as the dominion of Kipling's stirring balladry. If the English must have titles, where is the wrong with the names?

HIGHBROW IN FOOTBALL.

There are extremists who look forward to such a passage as this in the description of a Washington University football game next autumn:

"As the ball lay in midfield after the kickoff the quarterback took a graceful pose behind the center. Fingering his Phi Beta Kappa key, he made ready to call signals. Suddenly he paused, removed his tortoise-shell glasses, which he wiped carefully with a piece of chamois. Replacing them on his nose, he jerked a dainty handkerchief from his pocket, wiped his high and elaborate brows and said in carefully modulated accents: 'Gentlemen as you know, we are about to resume play. Please be on your guard. Aw—58, 22, 36'—"

Such visions have been evoked by Dr. Al Sharpe's flat the squad. All candidates for quarterback, he says, must take intelligence tests. They must not only solve football problems, but must answer general questions as well. The idea is to discover the relative alertness of the candidates.

We did not know that such artificial intellectualization of football was a part of modern coaching methods. It has been our understanding that the selection of a football team depended upon the conduct of the men in action. This understanding, apparently, is incorrect.

It would seem to me that the editor of a great paper like the Post-Dispatch is not one to be lightly treated and that his apology should be just as public as his alleged whitewash.

CHRISTIAN.

on the squad, to brush up on such things as "Where is Patagonia?" and "Who invented the electric dynamo?" If they fall, we shall be hard put to it for a signal caller next season.

HOW FAR CAN LAWYERS GO?

The Post-Dispatch is not prepared to act as judge and jury in the case of the police and Circuit Attorney Sidener against Attorney Sam Bender for taking possession of money supposed to have been stolen from an Oklahoma safe and needed by the prosecuting authorities as evidence in the case against the alleged thieves.

We are not prepared to say when Attorney Bender obtained the money from the Sheriff and put it in his private bank account. We are not prepared to say whether Judge Gayer was acting in accordance with the law when he gave Bender an order for the money. We have our own opinion as to the judgment of a Judge who turns over money supposed to be stolen to the attorney of the persons charged with the theft.

We have a clear idea, however, as to the money which Attorney Bender now holds in his possession. Persons who had that money in their possession were charged with the robbery of a safe in Oklahoma City. There was a warrant for their arrest. The amount stolen was $2000. They were caught in St. Louis with $1400 in a bag. Charging these persons with theft and assuming that the $1400 was stolen, the prosecuting authorities of Oklahoma City want the $1400 as evidence in the case.

Attoyer Bender claims $1000 of the $1400 as his fee, and holds the whole sum despite an excellent presumption that he will be the beneficiary of stolen funds and that the thieves will go free.

Suppose, instead of money, the Oklahoma prisoners had been charged with the theft of an automobile. Would a lawyer be justified or would he be allowed to hold the automobile or any other piece of movable property? There is no difference in character between a stolen automobile and stolen money, and we merely use the illustration to emphasize the character of the property.

Is it legal or ethical for a lawyer to seize stolen property as his fee? Can a lawyer legally or ethically act as a licensed fence for stolen property, or as an accessory after the fact?

We submit the ethics of this case to the Bar Association and the legality to Circuit Attorney Sidener, who is quoted as threatening to bring an indictment against Bender. We hope the Circuit Attorney will proceed with the case if necessary. We are rather hopeless of action on the ethics of the question on the part of the Bar Association, but at least the legality of the proceeding ought to be settled. The legal profession at least ought to be warned how far it can go in alliance with prisoners accused of crime, in sharing the alleged loot and defeating the ends of justice.

WATCH WICHITA.

It is one-tenth the size of St. Louis, yet in 1927 it turned out more airplanes than any city, of any size, in the United States. It has six airplane factories, an airplane parts company and an engine factory. More than 500 men are employed in its aviation plants. Unfilled orders for more than 800 airplanes are on hand.

That is Wichita, Kan., which calls itself "the Detroit of the aviation industry." If St. Louis expects to realize its ambition to be aviation's center it will have to run full throttle to overhaul its neighbor of the Kansas prairie.

OTO: My boy, I have broken the world's record for continuous swimming!

Leo: My dear fellow, what of it? I wonder if, as you leave, you'll have the garcon bring me a few more herring. And you might hang the "Do Not Disturb" sign on the doorknob.

Too bad we can't have a Leo to comment on other frenzied activities of the human species, such as to-wit: Champion coffee drinkers, doughnut consumers, hog and husband callers, writers-of-the-book-of-Job-on-a-postage-stamp and flagpole sitters.

The Making of a Man

PEOPLE THE SIOUX. By Chief Standing Bear. (Houghton Mifflin Co.)

CHIEF STANDING BEAR, who now presents his personal memoirs to the public under the less comprehensive title, Sioux Indians of the same name who founded the outstanding figures in the last phase of Indian life on the Plains.

Chief Standing Bear was born in the year of "the breaking of camp" in the month when "the bark of the trees cracked" with cold. It was not until he had gone to school for some time and had learned how to "count back" that he knew just when that was, but he was able to tell us now that he saw the light in December.

That was the year when Red Cloud's last triumph was com-memorized by the signing of a treaty, the reparation of which by the Sioux was brought on the Custer massacre of 1876. Luther Standing Bear is old enough to remember the great Crazy Horse, whom he saw shortly before that hero was Rosebud and the Little Big Horn was treacherously slain at Robinson. Also he had a case of Sitting Bull in the days when that wily medicine man had a show attraction and a source of autographs. He seems to have known neither Gall nor

Cloud, though both were living youth.

Chief Standing Bear's story is of an Indian struggling man-to adapt himself to the consumer's way of life and become a person of consequence in a new world. It is a story

To A Million Women Who Know The New Order Of Things

Who Want An Automobile That Looks Like Something—Acts Like Something—Is Something—Yet Costs Comparatively Little

If I were a woman, I'd want an automobile that could do all those things which only a woman will ask it to do.

Of course, I'd want it to look like something—to have grace, poise and life. For you see, it will be almost a part of me, my life, my home.

And I wouldn't want to pay a fortune for it, because I know too well the value of the dollar. But I would want far more than just looks and price.

I'd want the nimbleness, easy steering, dashing pick-up, certain stopping—that would end for me the terrors of driving in heavy traffic.

I'd want the ability to twist easily into tight parking corners—because I've had plenty of experience along this line on every downtown shopping tour.

I'd want sure-footed, positive braking on wet, slippery streets—for it is on wet, rainy mornings that I'm most anxious to drive the children to school.

And on certain afternoons, when I'm tired of dusting and dishes, I'd want this same car to be a care-free vagabond with me, interested only in finding out what is on the other side of some distant, wind-swept hill.

For all women who feel that way, Reo builds the Wolverine, builds it to be all that a million women have wished for in an automobile. Builds it to have speed, dash, comfort, poise—to handle easily, to brake surely, to get somewhere.

And Reo invites every woman to try out the Reo Wolverine, to judge it on any feminine basis, over any roads. For Reo has made the Wolverine the woman's car, as well as the man's.

Try one out today—you will be surprised—especially when you ask the price.

Sayings of Mrs. Solomon

By Helen Rowland

THE DANGEROUS MOOD.
My Son, there is a time to marry—and a time to beware of marriage.

A time to love—and a time to watch thy STEP!

Verily, NO man need dwell in fear of women, when all his thoughts are upon his work, all his dreams of his ambitions, and all his heart wrapped up in BUSINESS. For a man that laboreth feverishly from dawn until night, hath not a thought nor an emotion left for any woman!

But when the moment of idleness cometh; when he seeketh rest and diversion, when time hangeth heavily upon his hands and he is filled with ennui, then let him take heed. For his foot is upon the quicksands.

When he suffereth from disappointment and his heart is bruised; when he is lonely and filled with bitterness of spirit, let him close his eyes and pray for strength. For he shall NEED it!

When he hath quarreled with the woman of the moment; when his vanity hath received a blow; when he is filled with disillusion and sitheth to "forget, it all," let him gird up his loins against temptation. For then is he as a taxicab that steereth straight for the telegraph pole—and no amount of shouting can stop him!

When he is ill and weak and without defense; when he yearneth for nursing and coddling; when he hath no fight left IN him, then let him beware. For his danger is mighty!

Yea, these are the Marrying Moods! And neither heaven nor philosophy can HELP him against any woman!

He is as a sheep prepared for the shearing, a lamb decked for the sacrifice, a jay walker that seeth not the traffic signals!

But when he is content and happy and full of well-being; when his digestion worketh gloriously; when his friends are plentiful, and his pockets are overflowing, then need no man fear that he is in danger of matrimony.

For we requireth nobody to help him pity himself!

When he dwelleth in comfort and luxury in a bachelor flat; when he hath a mother to coddle him, and sisters to adore him, and handmaids to wait upon him then is he immune.

When his heart is lighter than a sponge cake, and his affections divided among many women as samples at a food show, then need he have no fear that he shall fall in love with any ONE woman!

For, verily, verily, he needeth nobody to help him LOVE himself!

SELAH.

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

THE UPSIDE DOWN CHAP.

Wrong side up to you may be
What is right side up to me.
—Silly the Sloth.

PICKLY PORKY is slow of wit. He takes a long time to think things over. That is because being armed as he is with the thinnest little spear that he carries in his coat, he never has to think quickly. And he is stubborn. He is seldom willing to agree with anybody. Boomer the Nighthawk had just been telling Pickly Porky about the latter's long-tailed cousin in the Tropics, and Pickly Porky has stated flatly that he didn't believe he had a cousin with any such kind of a tail. Then Scrapper the Kingbird had come along and had said that it was true. You see, both Boomer and Scrapper go away down in that land where there is no winter.

Pickly Porky considered this for a few minutes. Finally Boomer said: "Don't you believe it now?"

"No," grunted Pickly Porky, and began chewing a piece of bark.

"There you are!" said Scrapper the Kingbird, "That is what comes of living in one little place all the time. If Pickly Porky had traveled as you and I have, he wouldn't be so set in his ways or so ignorant."

At that Pickly Porky bristled up and his thousand little spars all stood out of his fur coat. "Who says you ignorant?" he demanded.

"I do," retorted Scrapper the Kingbird. "You believe only what you have seen, and you refuse to believe what others have seen. Now, Bobby Coon has never seen any of those queer members of 'is family down there in the Tropics, but he believes they are there, because we have told them they are there. Isn't that so, Bobby?"

Bobby nodded. "Certainly," said he. "I have reached the point where I can believe almost anything. If you should tell me that I have a relative down there who walks upside down, I'd believe it."

Scrapper the Kingbird began to chuckle. His eyes twinkled. "Well," said he, "you haven't any relatives down there who walk upside down, but there's a chap down there who does travel upside down just the same. He spends most of his life upside down."

Bobby Coon looked very hard at Scrapper. Then he looked very hard at Boomer the Nighthawk.

"Is he telling the truth?" he asked of Boomer at last.

"Nothing else but," replied Boomer promptly. "It may be hard to believe, Bobby, but there is an upside down chap down there."

"Has he got legs?" demanded Bobby Coon.

"Certainly," replied Scrapper.

"He has four legs and they are quite long legs, too."

PARIS.

PARIS has often expressed my dissatisfaction with the fact that original design is dying of indifference. This is not a question of taste or demand. Women are created by American manufacturers. The production of ready-to-wear dresses in America has been raised to a scientific level. There are thousands of patterns in stock, with a slight alteration each day, which can be utilized time and again serving for the production of hundreds of thousands of dresses sold at low prices.

in a Night

Eat what you please

Wear what you please

Do what you please

Take no risky medicine

Thousands of smart women have found this easy way to take off 2 to 4 pounds once or twice a week. These women take refreshing Farro baths in the privacy of their own homes.

Farro is the concentrate of the same natural mineral salts that make effective the waters of twenty-two hot springs of America, England and Continental Europe. For years the spas and hot springs bathing resorts have been the retreat of fair women and well-groomed men.

Excess weight has been removed, skins have been made more lovely, bodies more shapely and minds brighter.

Our dealers invite you to ask about "SUNDAES AT HOME"

SPRING SUGGESTIONS For the AMATEUR GARDENER

AN OLD FAVORITE COMES BACK.

WITH the developing interest in the arrangement of flowers in the house, an old garden favorite has regained its former prestige because of its color as well as its ease of growth and this is the nasturtium. It is an ideal flower for bowls in black or green baskets being favorite exhibits at flower shows. No more brilliant color can be furnished than by this most easily grown of annuals, nor is there any annual that gives a greater supply of bloom over a longer period.

It is a plant for poor soils and thrives in heat, asking only a reasonable supply of moisture in parching weather. In rich soils it is likely to develop its strength in luxuriant foliage at the expense of bloom, so do not give nasturtiums any fertilizer. It is one of the handsomest of plants for edgings and is perhaps grown best in this manner.

The flowers are mingled with the leaves in an artistic arrangement that is often imitated with excellent effect when the bloom is cut. It makes showy beds as well as a climber and an excellent low trailer for window or porch boxes in city apartments, giving a supply of flowers to cut with little trouble. While it climbs if assisted, it is really a rambling plant, as it has no tendrils and is not a twiner, so the long reaching stems must be tied up.

The colorings are the same in both the tall and dwarf sorts and include velvety, almost black, crimson through shades of scarlet and orange to brilliant yellow with some handsome rose shades and a brilliant series of blotted and flaked sorts. There are golden leaved, purple leaved and variegated leaved sorts to be had in the realm of dress in spite of the difficulty of finding a supply to buy from the first class designers in the world, because in this category of activity more convenient not to 100.

THE STORY SO FAR.
With a gift of $1000 from Bob Brownell's father, Bob and pretty Molly Anderson were to be married in a week. They work in the same office. On the Sunday when the gift reaches them they pass a place where Mary Holmqvist (nicknamed "little Swede"), another girl from the office, was to meet a new admirer.

CHAPTER XXII.
"LITTLE SWEDIE, as I live!" said Bob.

As he spoke, the pretty blonde saw them, and waved. She was adorned with a white broad-cloth coat, a dainty pale blue hat, the most delicate of white kid slippers with large buckles on them.

"Waiting for my date," she called.

They came to her and she continued, happily: "I'm half an hour early—can you picture me being early? But he's my first heavy date in two weeks and I don't want to make him sorry by being late."

"Who's he?" asked Brownell.

"A fellow I met," said Mary Holmqvist.

"Mary's in love," said Molly, mischievously.

"Darned if I don't think you're right," said the blonde. "My heart hasn't bumped so in a month!"

She smiled upon them cheerfully. "Generally when I fall in love I get into the dumps, but I've got a happy case this time—I can hardly stand still." She looked up and down the street. "Not in sight yet. He carries a pimento-wood cane and he gets his shirt made to order."

"How'd you find that out? I thought you only met him once," Molly inquired.

"Oh, he told me. He wears the cutest colored socks to match his shirts—all cross-hatched, and curly cues on his shoes—they're part white and part tan. Sweetest things you ever saw. He gets his ties made to order, too. He said so."

"Who is he—Prince of Wales?" chaffed Brownell.

The blonde's face fell a trifle. "I wish he was. I'll be het's not got a bean in his pockets, but he's the sweetest thing!"

"Bob and I are going to get married," Molly said, abruptly.

"Again—or yet?"

"I mean we're going to be married next week."

"Heavenly days!" Mary's hands went up. "Why so sudden?"

"Oh," said Molly. "Bob has just inherited some money, and—"

Little Swede gave a mock groan. "Everybody gets money now," she said. As she said this, however, her eyes brightened and her lips took a sudden smile. "Whoo-hoo!" she cried, and ran down the steps.

A large sedan was drawing up to the curb, driven by a young man in the brightest possible attire. His tie was a brilliant bit of cubist art; his shirt was done in lavender stripes, which were repeated in his collar; his suit was an impressive study in glad colorings. On his lip sprouted a small black mustache, below which a row of fine white teeth was bared in a smile.

Mary waved to Bob and Molly, who stood staring as she entered the car, and she waved again as the machine moved down the street.

"That's a rent car," said Brownell.

"Still, it makes Mary happy," Molly said. "I only wish she could be as happy as I am."

Walking very close together, they hunted up a place to lunch, and the remainder of the day they spent driving in the country.

Mr. Frazier, next morning, received Molly's resignation with good humor.

"I thought," he said, "that you two kids would see enough of one another to stop this marriage foolishness."

"You couldn't have stopped it with a gun," said Molly.

"I suppose not," he grinned, meditatively. "How soon will you want your job back?"

"Never," said Molly. "Bob and I will believe in married women working."

"Noble resolve," said he. "But how're you going to pay for silver-gilt shoes and dancing dresses?"

"I won't need any," she said.

"No fur?" Her glance was quizzical.

Molly hesitated at this. "I might have to get a coat sometime, but—" she smiled engagingly at her employer—"you'll be giving Bob a raise pretty soon, won't you?"

He raised his eyebrows. "So? A raise already, eh?" He drew his hand across his mouth. "Hum! Listen here—if I give him a raise, will you let him have enough of it to buy a decent lunch with, every day?"

"Why, of course!" she replied indignantly.

"You probably won't, but—tell him to come in and see me. And God help you both!" This was his parting blessing, and he watched her with a twinkle in his eye as she went out the door.

As it happened, Bob was still in the office, and she went to him at once to tell him of Mr. Frazier's summons. While he was in the private office, she went to Sticke's desk. The office manager had returned from his holiday ahead of time, and now was bent over his desk, glumly examining the previous week's reports.

"I'm going to leave here Saturday," she said to him. He looked up and blinked. "I wanted to tell
